Indon court told Bashir incited attacks

Indonesian court has ruled that Sudanese President Omar al-Bashir incited the 2002 attacks on the Indonesian embassy in Jakarta, which killed 12 people and injured 100. The court found that Bashir gave a speech in Khartoum in which he urged his supporters to attack the Indonesian embassy. The court also found that Bashir's government provided logistical support for the attacks. The court's decision is a landmark ruling in the case against Bashir, who is wanted by the International Criminal Court (ICC) for genocide and crimes against humanity in Darfur. The court's decision is a significant step towards holding Bashir accountable for his actions.

Thai PM admits 'mistakes' after deaths of 78 Muslims

Prime Minister Yingluck Shinawatra has admitted that her government made mistakes in the handling of the 2011 anti-government protests in Bangkok, which resulted in the deaths of 78 people, including 54 Muslims.

She said the government was "deeply sorry" for the deaths and injuries, and that it would do everything possible to prevent such a tragedy from happening again.

The PM's statement came as the government sought to ease tensions between the military and the protesters, who have been demanding her resignation.

The PM's statement was seen as a significant step towards reconciliation, but critics argue that the government has not done enough to address the underlying issues that led to the protests.

They say the government should have been more transparent in its handling of the crisis, and that it should have taken more steps to protect the rights of all citizens.

The PM's statement was also seen as a sign that the government was willing to accept responsibility for its actions, which was a positive development in the eyes of many people.

However, some people still believe that the government is not sincere in its efforts to resolve the crisis, and that it is only trying to buy time to prepare for the next election.

Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the distribution of the number of children per family (Y-axis, 0 to 10) across different levels of education (X-axis, 0 to 10 years) for the years 1990 and 2000 (Z-axis). The chart shows a general trend of decreasing fertility with increasing education, with a notable increase in the 0-1 children category for higher education levels in 2000 compared to 1990.

Figure 1 is a line graph with the x-axis labeled 'Number of hauls' ranging from 0 to 100 in increments of 20. The y-axis is labeled 'Percentage of total catch' ranging from 0 to 100 in increments of 20. There are two data series: one represented by a solid line with circular markers and another by a dashed line with circular markers. The solid line series starts at approximately 10% for 10 hauls and rises steeply to nearly 100% by 100 hauls. The dashed line series starts at approximately 20% for 10 hauls and remains relatively flat, ending at approximately 25% for 100 hauls.

Court orders release of detained fishermen

MANILA, Jan. 10 (AP) — A court has ordered the release of 10 fishermen detained by the Philippine Coast Guard (PCG) in a dispute over a fishing boat. The court said the PCG had no legal basis for detaining the fishermen and their boat.

The court's decision comes after a long legal battle between the fishermen and the PCG. The fishermen claim that the PCG seized their boat without proper authorization. The PCG, on the other hand, claims that the boat was fishing in a restricted area.

The court's decision is a victory for the fishermen, but it also raises questions about the PCG's authority. The PCG is a relatively new agency, and its powers are still being tested. This case is one of the many challenges it faces as it tries to enforce maritime laws.

Kidnap-slay suspects convicted of car theft

The court's decision is a warning to other criminals that they will be caught and punished. It also shows the court's commitment to justice and the rule of law.
